Dear Hiring Manager,

I am interested in senior technology leadership roles requiring ownership of technology strategy, enterprise systems, architecture, service operations, governance and modernization. I currently lead a 54-person technology organization with seven direct reports, with responsibility spanning software and applications, architecture, data/reporting, support and customer service, security/governance and service operations. The platforms under this leadership support approximately 60K users, 90K facilities/entities, 300 suppliers and around 1M transactions per month.

My value is the combination of executive ownership and engineering depth. I progressed from hands-on Linux and C#/ .NET development through development-team leadership and enterprise/e-government delivery into national-scale technology leadership. That background enables me to connect strategy, architecture, delivery, risk, vendors and operational resilience rather than treating them as separate disciplines.

I would bring a structured, outcome-focused approach: clear ownership, strong stakeholder alignment, disciplined governance, practical technical judgment and attention to what is required for successful implementation and sustainable operation.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how this experience could support your organization's priorities and the outcomes expected from the role.

Sincerely,

Mahmoud Salama
